

Marilena Pezzuto has been developing solutions in Consumer good and flexible packaging applications and supporting technically customers at SABIC in the last 7 years.

With a PhD in Material Science she started her carrier as researcher in Italy developing high barrier polyolefins material for food packaging applications and specialized on the use of tenter frame technology with the use of corona and plasma treatment. Today she is mainly focused on projects driving by sustainability in order to reduce packaging waste and carbon foot print.